Must See in Detroit

Detroit Institute of Arts. There is a lot to see, but don't miss the Diego Rivera mural (one of a kind after Rockefeller destroyed the one Diego painted for him at 30 Rock). Also, the café downstairs is nice. It is a world class museum with incredible collections. While you are in the area, you could walk across the street to the Detroit Historical Museum.

Motown Museum is a charming classic in a little house owned by Berry Gordy.

When you go out of the Ren Cen's atrium toward the water, you'll see the awesome Detroit River Front.

Detroit also has tremendous architecture. It is mandatory that everyone go into the Guardian Building and go up the red marble stairs. You can get a cappuccino or gifts at Pure Detroit, but you have to look at the tiles and the five story mural of Michigan. You should also look at the Buhl Building and the atrium inside of the David Whitney Building.

If you venture up to New Center, the Fisher Building is a must.

If you have a car, consider driving though Indian Village, a beautiful historic neighborhood established in 1893.
